

Self Assessment Form

Student Name:	Scott Crowter
---------------	---------------

Each week you should complete short notes or diary about your college work. It will help you plan what needs to happen next and reflect on your progress.

Guidance points:

What are the main things you planned to do this week? (this can include research)

What did you actually manage to get done?

What went well? What are you pleased with? What will you need to change or improve?

Who did you work with? How do you work together?

Overall summary - key points from the week, and what you need to do next.

This week I aimed on writing out the skills and resources needed to complete my project, alter the permission form I created for my first year Final Major Project so that it can be used before I verbally asked permission for people to be interviewed; I then planned on deciding on the order they would be interviewed in. Other things that were on my to do list were completing the video filmed on 16/09/20, researching the process of an Interview, watching Interviews and analysing them. I also wanted to write up my altered plan for the project before looking at the culture sites named in class and looking at different culture sites before analysing them.

Although I planned this, I may have planned to do too much. I was only able to complete my skills and resources list, alter my first year Final Major Project permission form, verbally ask if people would like to be interviewed, research the process of an interview and write up my altered project plan. I am glad I have managed to get so much done but also disappointed that I didn't manage to complete more. I think in future weeks I will reduce the amount I plan to do, this will allow me to focus on the things I am completing in better quality and without worrying about how much I need to complete that week. This week I worked with Frank in order to film my introduction to the project, after Frank filmed me I filmed him introducing his project.

I believe this next week I need to alter how much I plan on doing and the deadlines for each task. I may need to work with other members of my class to get some of my work done, especially to practice interviewing another person. I will post on the group plan for METConnect, complete the video that I filmed with Frank, finish the research on interviews which includes watching and analysing some found online. I also want to write a brief introduction into the rest of the classes projects and analyse some culture websites.
